

Elizabeth B. Dowd
Career Coach
Working Your Passion™

For more than two decades, Beth Dowd has directed human resources efforts in leading companies serving such diverse markets as training and development, media/telecommunications, e-commerce, benefits/compensation, finance, healthcare and the non-profit sector.

A forward-thinking, creative individual with uncompromising ethical standards, Beth's strong intuition and translation capabilities quickly build trust-based relationships that set her apart from her colleagues. Senior executives look to Beth for the proven strategies needed to recruit, create, motivate and retain high-potential individuals. In addition, she uniquely combines powerful individuals into cohesive teams focused on achieving company goals in record time.

Most recently, Beth architected a breakthrough approach to passionate employment called Working Your Passion™, which combines her expansive human resources expertise with the latest advances in career coaching. The proprietary program, now in its third year, enjoys an impressive success rate and works equally well in start-up, entrepreneurial and established companies as with individuals seeking their dream job.
